

CENTER FOR STRATEGIC AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
and SANDIA NATIONAL LABORATORIES

GLOBAL WATER FUTURES

The Center for Strategic and International Studies and Sandia National Laboratories cordially invite you to attend

Global Water Futures White Paper Release

Thursday, September 29, 2005

3:00pm • Senate Energy Committee Hearing Room • SD-366

Special Comments by

Senator Pete Domenici

Summary of findings by

Erik R. Peterson

*Senior Vice President and Director, Global Strategy Institute
Center for Strategic and International Studies*

Peter Davies

Director, Geoscience and Environment Center Sandia National Laboratories

Light refreshments will be served

Over the past year, the Center for Strategic and International Studies and Sandia National Laboratories have been engaged in a joint research effort to generate fresh thinking and concrete policy recommendations on how the United States can (1) better address future global water challenges and (2) more efficiently leverage and deploy available technologies. Toward this end, the two organizations have hosted two conferences, conducted extensive background research, and engaged knowledgeable experts in the government, private sector, and nongovernmental organization community. This White Paper marks the culmination of the effort. Please join us for a discussion of the important findings of our research and future efforts.

For more information contact Laura Keating at (202) 775-3232 or LKeating@csis.org

Supported by ITT Industries, with additional assistance from the Coca Cola Company and Procter & Gamble

